HIGH TRIBUNAL GRANTS WOMAN ANOTHER CHANCE

Mrs. Annie Henry, 24, Was Convicted In Murder Of Salesman

PREJUDICE IS CITED
Supreme Court Finds Hearing Was Unfair To Alleged Slay

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Louisiana Supreme Court today granted a new trial to Mrs. Annie Henry, 24, who had been convicted of the murder of a salesman.

Mrs. Henry, 24, was convicted of the murder of a salesman, who was found dead in a rooming house in New Orleans. The trial was held in a court of first instance.

The court found that the trial was unfair to Mrs. Henry because of prejudice against her. The court granted her a new trial.

Democrats, Republicans Make Final Bids For American Ballots On Eve Of Unpredictable, Turbulent 1940 Presidential Election

Speakers, Both National And Local, Marshalled By Two Parties In Eleventh Hour Broadside; Final Messages Arranged

The turbulent campaign to the 1940 presidential election reached its eleventh hour today as both the Democratic and Republican parties marshalled their speakers for final broadside attacks.

The Democratic party, led by Wendell Wilkie, made a final appeal to the voters in Madison Square Garden. Wilkie, who was elected governor of Ohio, urged voters to support him for president.

The Republican party, led by Charles McNary, also made a final appeal to the voters. McNary, who was elected governor of Oregon, urged voters to support him for president.

The election was expected to be very close, with both parties having a strong chance of winning. The results would have a major impact on the future of the United States.

VANISHES AFTER ARRIVING ABOVE UTAH CITY FIELD

Heavy Snowstorm In Progress As Plane Flies Over Airport

FEAR FOR ITS SAFETY
Attempts To Contact Ship By Radio Fail, Officials Report

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A missing United Airlines plane with 10 aboard was located today on the ground in the mountain country north of Centerville, Utah.

The plane was sighted by searching fliers. The transport disappeared early this morning during a driving snowstorm.

William Hays, United Airlines flier who "spotted" the grounded plane, said low hanging clouds obscured his vision. He was unable to determine whether any of the seven passengers or crew of three had survived the crash.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 4.—(AP)—An airliner carrying seven passengers and a crew of three vanished today after arriving over the Salt Lake airport at 4:19 a.m. (Mountain Standard time).

The grounded Airlines plane left San Francisco at 10:30 p.m. (MST) last night and was due in Salt Lake City at 3:30 a.m.

The big plane arrived over the airport at 4:19 a.m. but was unable to land because of a heavy snowstorm. Captain Howard Few reported he was following the radio beam as he approached the field.

Field headquarters here talked with the crew and the plane apparently began circling high overhead to await a break in the weather.

Later reports to contact the plane by radio failed. United Airlines' log listed the plane as missing.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Muir, Detroit, Joe Caffero, Oakland, Calif., E. A. Dusbahl, Fergus Falls, Minn., Dr. G. L. Stevenson, Sacramento, Calif., and Mrs. L. Wilson, Maywood, Calif., were on board.

Muir is connected with the Briggs Manufacturing Company of Detroit. He and his wife boarded the plane at San Francisco. They were returning to Detroit.

Caffero was en route to Chicago. Dusbahl was en route home after a visit with his son, Philip, at Pittsburg, Calif.

Dr. Stevenson was en route to Salt Lake City. Wilson, an employee of the United Airlines, and his wife were returning home after a west coast visit.

Voluntary Enlistments May Fill First Draft

State Selective Service Officials See Possibility In Statement

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Louisiana State Selective Service officials today said they saw a possibility of filling the first draft with voluntary enlistments.

The officials said that many young men were volunteering to serve in the armed forces. They hoped that this would reduce the number of men who would have to be drafted.

The first draft was expected to be held in December. The officials hoped that the voluntary enlistments would be enough to fill the first draft.

The officials said that they were encouraging young men to volunteer. They hoped that this would help the country in its war effort.

The officials said that they were also looking for ways to help young men who were having difficulty with their education. They hoped that this would help them to become better citizens.

Twin Is Killed By Train In Accident Near Start

Baby Girl Wanders Onto Track; Sister Died Of Pneumonia Attack

RAYVILLE, Nov. 4.—(Special)—The death of a twin girl, one of 12 children, was blamed today, the victim of a railway accident.

The child, Alice Fay Sullivan, one-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gertrude Sullivan of Rayville, was killed when she wandered onto the tracks near the start of a railway accident.

Servicers were at the residence, with Rev. Hammond of the Baptist Church of Alto officiating. Interment was at Alto cemetery, near Calhoun.

The accident occurred shortly after 11 a.m. Sunday.

Francis Frank Watts of Monroe, in charge of the Illinois Central System train No. 294, bound from Shreveport to Meridian, reported, according to Coroner T. M. Sayre of Richland parish, that on hearing Start he saw an object near the track which appeared to be a paper.

Approximately 100 yards from it, he said, he saw a child, a girl, who was running toward the tracks. The child was struck in the head, he added.

The baby's body was placed in the baggage car and accompanied by the train.

ROOSEVELT GETS PETAIN ANSWER

French Ambassador Delivers Reply To Secretary Hull

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Gaston Henry-Haye, the French ambassador, today delivered to Secretary Hull a message from Marshal Petain in reply to President Roosevelt's communication to him concerning Franco-American relations.

The ambassador told newspapermen just before entering Hull's office, that he was delivering Petain's answer but declined to reveal its contents.

Hull said at his press conference that the question of French possessions in the western hemisphere arose during his conversation with the French ambassador but that it was not discussed to any great extent.

He said they also had discussed general phases of relations between the two countries. Hull said the message Henry-Haye brought him had not yet been translated.

Asked about reports of German peace proposals, Hull said he had nothing new on the subject.

The contents of the president's communication were not disclosed, but informed officials had the impression that it dealt with the question of French "collaboration" with Germany, and possible aspects of that "collaboration" which might affect American interests, particularly disposition of French colonies in the new world.

Whether there was any link between United States naval activity in the Caribbean and the future of French possessions in that area remained a mystery.

The navy department offered no information about the activities of warships in the area, beyond saying that they were engaged in training and patrol work. Other sources, however, said some of the vessels would be in the vicinity of the French island possession of Martinique.

The United States has manifested its concern over the future status of Martinique, in the event of any settlement between Germany and the United States.

The French ambassador, who is in port there with some hundred American-made warplanes she was carrying to France at the time the country collapsed.

Whether the report of a new German peace effort had any connection with previous reports of a Franco-German agreement would not be learned. The state department said it had heard a rumor that "Chamberlain, Hitler, planned an armistice on peace to the German people, but lacked official confirmation."

War Bulletins

BRITISH AID
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Belgrade newspaper Pravda today quoted Greek newspaper as saying that British aid will include sending three army divisions—45,000 men—to Greece.

Where they are to land or for what they are to be used was not said. (The British have confirmed that their forces already have landed on the Greek island of Crete.)

ANNUAL CITIZENSHIPS
VICHY, France, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The government annulled today the naturalization of 300 persons given French citizenship since August 16, 1937.

A communiqué said the group was composed mostly of emigrants from central Europe whose "assimilation would be particularly difficult" and "political attitudes whose incorporation into the national community presented more danger than interest."

RESIDENTS DEPART
HONGKONG, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Departure of Japanese residents from the British crown colony of Hong Kong, proceeding hastily for the last two months, was accelerated today with more than 30 persons, including a Japanese liner bound for home.

S. Kikumoto, chief of the Hong Kong bureau of the Tokyo newspaper Asahi, and families of employees of the Japanese consulate were among them. Japanese authorities insisted that the Japanese were leaving entirely on their own initiative and without official prompting.

DELITTLE ARMED AID
ROME, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The Italian press today belittled the armed aid which A. V. Alexander, first lord of the British admiralty, said Saturday the Greeks were receiving.

"In Greece," Il Popolo D. Roma said, "there are a few British troops."

COLLEGE FOR CANINES

HEAVE FOR A RETRIEVE—Only the command, "Dead bird—fetch," will give this dog a chance to show how well he learned his retrieving lesson at Mick Helm's dog-training school near Lacombe, La. Sandbag is exactly a quail's weight.

HERE IT IS, FIDO—Early in the training of a bird dog at Lacombe, La., school, the dog is shown where the sandbag used for first retrieving practice is thrown.

MAN'S THE MASTER—A "force collar" that slips and can be pulled tight at trainer's will is used to train dogs to obedience at commands, at Mick Helm's canine school. Some dogs that are "gun shy" flunk stiff course there.

HIS OWN IDEA—No punishment's involved here, at Helm training school. Hound just wanted to sit in the water.

THANKS TO SEALS—Sure enough, it's the cutaway done up with chic glamor—in a Matara brown Alaska sealskin evening jacket just made for winter's social season. Sequins outline a delicate scroll and sequins glitter, too, from the buttons.

SEEING'S NOT BELIEVING, NAZIS HOPE—Camouflage intended to conceal this craft from enemy eyes gives above German mine-sweeper a gay pattern as it enters war lanes.

WENDELL L. WILLKIE—Republican Presidential Candidate Wendell L. Willkie waves to the crowds, just as does his Democratic rival in the next columns. U. S. voters will make their choice Nov. 5, when record 50,000,000 vote is expected.

NEWS-STAR PICTURE FLASHES

EXPERT—Stanley K. Hornbeck, 57, adviser on foreign relations to the state department, was born in Franklin, Mass., was for several years professor at University of Wisconsin.

NO SNEEZE, NO WHEEZE—Fugitives from allergy, Arthur Stenzel of Houston and Mrs. C. G. Gullip of Wesokg, Okla., were duke and duchess of hay fever contest in Galveston, Tex. Ragweed for crowns was imported. Galveston has none.

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT—Democratic Presidential Candidate Franklin D. Roosevelt also acknowledges the cheers, as nearing election date steps up the tempo of campaigning. President two terms, F.D.R. now seeks a third.

(JUNIOR) MOTHER'S WORK IS NEVER DONE—"Yea, there's always something to be done about a house," agreed these three as they previewed some of the new toys that Santa Claus with a bumper $240,000,000 pack may have for U. S. children. Left to right in New York: Rita Schaefer, Barbara Griffin (winning dishes), Barbara Susman, who's busy with an egg-beater.

NOW FOR SOME DEER STEAKS—With most of the border restrictions relative to importing arms removed, Americans have been hitting Canada's game trails—among them being Norman Paget (left). He got this 190-pound, four-point deer not far from Huntsville, Ontario. And the real job, he found, is carrying out the buck, even with the aid of a strong guide.

France—A Split Personality

Eloquent Andre Maurois is in this country appealing for France. She could not have a more effective advocate.

"Do not judge France harshly in this hour of her great distress," pleads M. Maurois. "She needs more than ever your understanding friendship and she has I think, a right to it, as she has lost everything in the service of freedom."

So be it. Despite the substantial repayment made in 1917 and 1918 the United States will never forget that it was French support that helped win the Revolutionary War.

The France which M. Maurois properly reminds us can never die, the France of Montaigne, of Moliere and Racine and Balzac, the France of Chateaubriand, Amiens and Dijon, the France of Voltaire and Diderot and Voltaire, that France will always live in the hearts of civilized men, together with the hope that it may rise again.

But France as a political unit among the nations of the world can scarcely be said to exist at all today. The causes of France's fall are an absorbing and necessary field for investigation, but the fact remains that France is fallen. In its relations to the outside world it has no freedom of action. Whatever action it takes must originate with Nazi Germany, or at the least must not be repugnant to Hitler's secret police. There are signs that Frenchmen are beginning to realize this more fully, a modern descendant of some seventeenth-century balladeer puts it:

A rueful young Frenchman of Clichy.
Said, "We were both wacky and wacky!"
"We fell in the trap, Oh!"
"And got the Gestapo."
"Plus a fragrance that's fishy from Vichy!"

For the French people the United States will always have sympathy; but the French people are mute. For the present French government, which can in the nature of things be nothing but a creature of France's conqueror, Hitler, the United States can have nothing but a vigilant wariness. Marshal Petain's plaintive assertion that "at least France retains its sovereignty" has no basis in reality.

M. Maurois has been speaking for the French people and for French culture. Whether he proposes to go further and speak for the men of Vichy, we do not know. But if he does, he will need to summon more eloquence than even he has yet been able to command.

Warm In Winter

Many travelers who have spent winters in Europe remark on their suffering in those countries from imperfect heating facilities. The average European seems to have adjusted himself to cooler temperatures. An American would shiver in many European homes when the natives are apparently comfortable. Foreigners say Americans keep their homes too hot, and as a consequence they become more sensitive to cold.

Countless Americans do heat their buildings to a too high temperature. Arctic explorers never get colds, it is said. But in this milder climate persons are constantly sneezing and coughing and spending days in bed with attacks of gripe.

The well heated homes of America are a wonderful comfort when the thermometer drops below freezing. One comes in from outdoors with a sense of happiness and protection. A house too hot may be quite as bad as one that is too chilly.

Many people whose homes are heated by furnaces leave the drafts wide open until their dry throats or a feeling of discomfort and lassitude warns them the heater is overdoing its stuff. A glance at a humidity indicator which discloses the moisture in the air will disclose astonishing difference between outdoor air and indoor air in a heated house. Except in climates with dry atmosphere, this explains many a case of sore throat in midwinter.

Many people still have poor and inadequate heating apparatus. One of the first inquiries from a prospective house purchaser in a cold climate is in regard to the heating system.

Guns And Butter

Germany's military preparedness was achieved at direct cost to civilian life. The famous "guns-instead-of-butter" phrase well described the situation. With capacity to produce only a limited number of things, civilian life had to be content with less when military preparedness demanded the lion's share.

The United States is in many respects more fortunate. There is good reason to believe that in many instances we shall be able to produce what is needed for military purposes without greatly cutting down normal civilian use. Steel is an example.

Walter S. Tower, president of the Iron and Steel Institute, is authority for the statement that present producing capacity of the iron and steel industry is ample to meet all essential needs now in sight, and that without any great amount of plant expansion.

Naturally, defense orders must have the first call, and so some civilian orders may be delayed. But Tower believes the industry can actually produce all the steel that can be used for defense, and still have plenty for automobiles, construction and the customary needs of peace.

Tower feels that urgent defense needs would be more quickly and effectively met by giving defense the right of way, and temporarily curtailing civilian supplies, than by rushing into construction of additional plants, which would probably take a year or so to become effective. This problem will have to work out as we go along, but after-war deflation would be less dangerous if undue expansion could be avoided.

REVOLT FROM A RADIO

Elmer Twitchell is suffering from what is coming to be known as "radio chills." He is beginning to shiver at the very sight of a radio. "Yes," admitted Elmer today, "I'm afraid of the darned thing. It used to be fairly peaceful; at least there was nothing about it to intimidate me. It was just a piece of furniture between the piano and the vestibule, or a table ornament with cigar ashes all around it."

"I may not have been overfond of it, but I considered it a good friend. It was a bit obnoxious at times but never savage. It was even safe for women and children to handle." Here Elmer looked nervously around and shed a few tears.

"The breakfast food, hair oil, chocolate bar and gasoline talks were annoying at times, but they never made my hair stand on end," continued Mr. Twitchell. "And the minute I heard some radio voice say: 'This is the Peter Pipp Almond Program' I didn't have to duck or have a battle for civilization hurled smack into my lap!"

"A few words about a tooth powder weren't a prelude to all the ghastly details of a bombing raid. About the worst I had to fear from the radio in the old days was some Hackensack Lady Duo or the voice of the man who urges radio fans to watch their innards and buy the Key to Vigor and Vim for $1.50 before it goes to $2.25."

"I could even ignore my radio and assume it was out of order and perfectly harmless. But then days is gone. It's now a constant menace. I have a feeling it can snap, snarl and bite me."

Elmer was plainly all upset. "It's become a thing of blizzards and bombs and bullets. I'd just as soon have a tank in the room. In fact, I'd rather have a tank, provided it was wired for just the baseball scores and racing results."

"Having a radio is almost the same as going to war. It's worse in a lot of ways. In a war there are periods when you are too far back to know what's going on up front!"

At this point Mr. Twitchell put on a zoo mask, grabbed a gun and started crawling across the floor toward his radio set, using the other furniture for cover. "This is about the time the wife tunes in on one of those programs," he whispered. Elmer had plainly gone nuts.

THE CYCLE

To register, to register.
As once my old man did.
To register, to register.
As some day will my kid.

Ed Wynn tells of a girl who eats so much and so fast that he claims she is the only one he ever knew who could make sparks fly from a knife and fork.

He didn't get the credit he deserved, but Ed Norwood, who died in Old Lyme, Connecticut, the other day, was a great circus press agent. The head of the Ringling-Barnum and Bailey force in the twenties, Ed was a genial, hustling, square-shooting press man who stood head and shoulders over most of the others. He wasn't the figurehead type and never became legendary. Norwood was a fellow who could combine efficiency with good fellowship. He was always accessible, always the soul of graciousness and a damned good writing man.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

DUTY OF EVERY CITIZEN TO VOTE

The men and women of this country prize their right to vote above all other rights they possess, yet when the time comes to exercise that right on election day more than a few of them will not take the trouble to vote. This will be true this year when votes will decide tremendous issues, issues on which may depend the future life and liberty of us and our children.

Voting is a citizen's right. It is also his duty. No good citizen will remain away from the polls on election day. He will get there and vote according to his convictions if he has to be rolled there in a wheel chair. If he is confined to his bed he will vote and have his vote recorded by the regulations prescribed in his state. Death alone can prevent an American citizen from performing his first duty to his country on election day.

And yet, interested citizens will tear up and down the streets ringing doorbells, driving cars, making telephone calls, to "get the vote out." Maybe it would encourage some of these laggards to action if they gave a thought to what value a vote has in the totalitarian lands, and of what value a citizen of one of those lands is to the leader. That ought to drive the laziest of us to the polls before daybreak.

It might help, too, to think about what we vote for this time in terms of the children of the land. What we accomplish at the polls this year is going to affect their lives, their fortunes, their happiness. We cast this vote not for ourselves, whose lives are set for the duration, but for those who are to succeed us. Whatever burdens we assume this day they must carry, whatever form of government we set this day they must live by; whatever ideals we establish by this vote they must maintain. This is not our vote; it is theirs.

It is impossible to be wise about the future. Nor can we say what will be good for these children and young people a generation from now. We can, however, use our intelligence. We know what is happening in the world. We know what kind of life we enjoy. Experiences of our own and especially the experiences of the peoples who have fallen under the domination of the totalitarians show us our danger, the threat to our traditions, customs and ideals, the menace of evil to our children. We must, if we are in the least thoughtful, understand that the freedom of the individual, his right to a voice in his government, the preservation of the safeguards of his liberties, is imperative. We vote in accordance with that view.

The freedom we insist upon preserving allows for the widest differences of opinion in details. On the essential, the freedom of the people and the control of their own government, there is just one opinion in the United States. On that we vote, not for ourselves, but for our children. What the signers did for us, we do now for them. Vote.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Trouble With Number Tables," in which he explains an easy way to help children improve in arithmetic. ## PASSING ATTACK OF WASHINGTON PROVES SUPERB

Redskins Seem Destined To Take Spotlight From Green Bay Team

By Tom Siler
CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The Green Bay Packers' famed passing attack is showing unmistakable signs of falling apart, but the Washington Redskins are ready to take up where the national champions left off.

The Packers, five times the champion in the past 11 years, blew plenty of scoring opportunities Sunday in losing to the Chicago Bears, 14 to 7, while the undefeated Redskins were racking up their seventh straight triumph, 31 to 10.

The Redskins connected for 14 of 16 passes and rolled up 371 yards in whipping Pittsburgh, leaving them needing only two victories in four games to clinch the Eastern division title. Sammy Baugh tossed two touchdown passes to Jimmy Johnston, Frank Filkins tossed one to Bob Masterson and scored a touchdown himself. Dick Todd added the fifth exponent and Masterson kicked a field goal.

Washington now has completed 91 of 114 passes in seven games for an average of 190 yards a game in the air. In addition, the Redskins have a strong running game which has accounted for 400 yards in three straight weeks over the same route.

The Bears, playing before 43,424, looked good when they took the field in the first half, but they were out of sync in the second half. The Packers' first half drive was a 14-play, 100-yard march to a touchdown. The Bears' first half drive was a 14-play, 100-yard march to a touchdown.

The Packers had five good scoring drives in the last half, playing part of the third period and all of the fourth in Pittsburgh. But they were out of sync in the second half. The Packers' first half drive was a 14-play, 100-yard march to a touchdown.

W. CARROLL BOARD TO POST NUMBERS

OAK GROVE, Nov. 4.—(Special)—The West Carroll draft board Monday announced that it expected to have the order number list complete by Tuesday, following the receipt of the master list over the week-end. Officials stated that the parish total of volunteers for the United States Army was over and above, by 43, the local number of draftees that will be required. Just what hearing this fact will have on the draft quota already set for this parish is undetermined at the present time.

DISTRICT USAGE OF U. S. COTTON

Great Britain Cuts Consumption By Mills, Department Reports

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The agriculture department said today it had received reports that Great Britain was restricting domestic textile mill consumption of American cotton to 20,000 bales weekly.

This rate was said to correspond to about 75 per cent of the approximate average rate of consumption of American cotton in the 1939-40 season.

Consumption of Brazilian, Indian, and African cotton, on the other hand, was being encouraged, the department said, adding that the British cotton trade expects a record consumption of Indian and African cottons this season.

The department said that as a result of the restricted use of American cotton, supplies of the latter in Great Britain were "quite considerable." Consequently, American exports of cotton to the British Isles are expected to continue at a low level for some time.

Reporting on conditions in the Orient, the department said that buying interest in American cotton continued negligible in Japan, long one of the major customers. It appears, the department said, that even if the Orient is spared further military disturbances, Japanese imports of American cotton during the 1940-41 season may reach only about 401,000 bales instead of the 550,000 previously expected.

The Japanese were said to be turning more and more to Indian and South American cotton.

CONVINCES COPS HE'S HARMLESS

Physician, 78, Carried Gun As He Moved Toward Wendell Willkie

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(AP)—A 78-year-old physician has convinced authorities he meant no harm when he moved toward Wendell Willkie Saturday night at Madison Square Garden with a loaded gun in his pocket.

The aged man, Dr. Union S. Ward, who wore a large Willkie button when arrested, was released in $500 bail on a charge of violating the Sullivan anti-firearms law. Bail was provided by a Republican district leader who said he had given Dr. Ward tickets for the Willkie rally.

Assistant District Attorney Jacob Rosenblum said police were satisfied the man was harmless. Detectives reported that his ancient 32-caliber revolver wouldn't fire because of a faulty firing pin.

Dr. Ward, who when arrested was dressed in a long black coat, high collar and derby, was quoted by police as saying he kept the weapon and two more found at home "for protection."

The physician was arrested when he pushed forward through the crowd to "get a better look" at Willkie. A man and woman who said they saw him shift a gun from a trouser pocket to his overcoat summoned a policeman.

ELECTION SETUP SPEEDS RESULTS

Instantaneous Reporting Of Count To Be Effected By A. P.

(By Associated Press) The Associated Press will receive the detailed results of the national election Tuesday as rapidly as the ballots are counted throughout the country, through the vast election organization of The Associated Press. How that biggest of news stories will be covered is explained in this article.

Preparations are complete throughout the United States for the gigantic operation of almost instantaneous reporting of the count of some 50,000,000 votes to be cast in Tuesday's national election.

The Associated Press, mutual, non-partisan association of 1,400 newspapers, and world's largest news service, began making preparations months ago for collecting, tabulating and reporting the biggest vote ever to be cast in the history of democratic government.

It will bring into use as soon as polls begin to close an organization of 65,000 men and women—reporters, editors, messengers, tabulators. Its system of 255,000 miles of leased wires, forming a huge web over the country, together with batteries of special telephones and complex calculating machines in its offices throughout the country, will swing into the job of reporting the election.

As rapidly as the vote is counted in each of the country's some 120,000 voting districts or precincts, it will be telephoned into a county headquarters, combined into county totals.

Hold back the years - to look well - to feel strong
Thousands know of the amazing benefits of S.S.S. Tonic to help build rich, red blood... to increase the appetite... to aid digestion.

If you are past middle-life you will want to give particular attention to two important body functions—one, to keep your natural stomach digestive juices flowing; two, to keep your blood rich and healthy.

Frequently, as the years advance, the stomach becomes sluggish in pouring out its digestive juices to make use of the food eaten... likewise, wear and strain of worry, overwork, colds, and sickness often reduce one's blood strength.

Now you may rebuild your blood strength and restore sluggish stomach digestion... in the absence of an organic trouble or focal infection, with the famous S.S.S. Tonic.

S.S.S. acts two ways
In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways... first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat... secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Join the happy thousands
S.S.S. may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again... it helps build sturdy health... that's why so many say it "makes you feel like yourself again."

'Gentlemen, The Ladies'—Are Very Active In Politics

Even Worst Die-Hards Acknowledge It; Figures On Poll Shown

(By Ruth Cowan) WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Even the worst die-hards acknowledged it today. Regardless of the result of 1940's history-making election, the least would be "Gentlemen, the ladies."

Never since women gained the vote 20 years ago have they played such an active part in a campaign or represented such a potent factor at the polls as they have done in the political contest which will determine among other things whether Eleanor Roosevelt continues first lady at 1676 Pennsylvania avenue, or gives place to Edith Walker.

The Republican national committee estimated that there are 25,000,000 women eligible to vote out of some 60,000,000 qualified men and women in the nation, and the Democratic national committee has figures showing that in several states women voters actually outnumber the men.

These figures indicate that in Illinois 56 per cent of the voters eligible to mark "X" after their choice for president are women. The percentage of women voters in California is 54 per cent, in Montana 53 per cent, Indiana 52 per cent, and in Kansas and Missouri 51 per cent.

Noting this and the exceptional activity of women in the campaign—how they've stepped for their candidates, organized workers, posted doors, bells and set at telephone, Miss Margaret Wells, president of the National League of Women Voters, predicted "that never again will women's full participation in election work be considered new."

The league, a non-partisan organization interested not in how women vote but in the fact that they do vote, reported that the demands for literature "on how to get out the vote" and "how to conduct campaign schools" have increased five-fold over 1936.

These past few months have been hectic ones for Miss Marion E. Martin, national director of the Republican women's division, and for Mrs. Dorothy McAllister, national director of the Democratic women's division.

Women's campaigning for Willie worked through the Republican women's division or organized assorted clubs—the women workers for Willie, the Wilkiettes, the women volunteers for Willie. It has been a gay season for women.

Women have been vocal in this campaign. Martha Taft, who lost her campaign to get her husband, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, nominated for the presidency on the Republican ticket, has been stumpng for Willie. Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has been out speaking for Roosevelt.

Both camps have had their share of feminine beauty. Helen Gahagan, actress and California Democratic national committeewoman, has been electioneering for Roosevelt and Mary Pickford for Willie.

The literary fraternity likewise took to campaigning with enthusiasm. Kathleen Norris, noted novelist, was one of the many out for Willie. Dorothy Thompson, columnist, and a Democratic battalions of writers showed equal zeal for the Roosevelt cause.

Mrs. Roosevelt, whose energy requires no adjectives, has been relatively quiet during the campaign. Most of the time she has been at Hyde Park, N. Y. She held two political rallies there and she spoke briefly at several other political gatherings, predicting a Democratic victory in one of her final talks.

Mrs. Walker's speech-making has been limited to "hello." She has traveled with the candidate on his record-breaking campaign tour, criss-crossing the country.

The women have been talking for their favorite candidate, but a good number have had a word to say in their own behalf. Many are campaigning for congress, for state legislatures, and for other state and local offices. If they run true to form, they should have the last word in the campaign.

CAJUN COUNTRY HEARS POLITICS

'Let's Make The Rooster Crow,' Democratic Speaker Urges

LAFAYETTE, La., Nov. 4.—The 1940 presidential campaign, taking in conventional phrases from Maine to California, has produced a new slogan in the French-speaking Evangeline country of Louisiana—"Allons faire le coq croquer."

In plain English, that's "Let's make the old rooster crow."

It's the keynote of a bilingual campaign in the deep south section of the state, and it was coined by Louisiana's French-speaking lieutenant governor, Dr. Marc M. Morison.

A "bilingual" two-party campaign in the French-speaking area of Louisiana has been made since David W. Broderick, a 16-year Democrat, announced as a Republican candidate for congress.

Pipes is protesting against some quota restrictions imposed on his state's belt area during the tenure of Henry Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice-president, while secretary of agriculture.

He is opposing James D. Dumas, ex-bilingual descendant of the Acadians, displaced from Nova Scotia by the British before the American revolution, who is running for the Democratic nomination in Louisiana's 10th congressional district.

Governor Sam H. Jones, stressing party loyalty from the same platform, on which Dumas speaks, has striven a few French phrases through his own speeches.

He tells audiences of rice and sugar farmers, trappers and shrimp fishermen, "The first thing President Roosevelt asked me when I visited him in Washington was, 'How are my Acadian friends in Louisiana getting along?'"

He's hunted ducks in your country, he speaks your beautiful language. He's practically one of you."

One observer remarked, "I never thought I'd hear Roosevelt call a Cajun."

The campaign curiously combines meetings to which many French-speaking farmers drive in buggies, and a stream of radio broadcasts in French. Phrases often heard are "grand eglise," "the big high-binders," and "ce Willie qui ha pas meme ete juge de paix."

Translated, the latter is, "That Willie who never even has served as a justice of the peace."

Most all physicians agree that the main medicine in treating the common cold is rest.

AREA RECOVERS, PLANS FESTIVAL

Rice Section 'Business As Usual' Signs Out Despite Tragedy

(By James Marlow) CROWLEY, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Dark-eyed, French-speaking people, bludgeoned with the most stunning disaster that ever struck them or their ancestors in this sunlit rice country, come up to the surface of living again with the grit that helped their people build a new world in Louisiana.

In August, flood waters sent them streaming homeless over the highways, drowned their cattle, swamped their stores, ruined their houses and destroyed 40 per cent of their $4,000,000 rice crop.

Only once before in America, they believe, had anything comparable to that blow happened to their people. When the British seized Nova Scotia 200 years ago and turned out the Acadians as fugitives.

Scattered and homeless then they poured southward into Louisiana by river boat and sea-borne ships, families and lovers separated as were those legendary Acadian sweethearts, Gabriel and Evangeline, who met and lived at last under an oak tree east of here.

For a couple of hundred miles along the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico, that washes southern Louisiana, they took a new hold on life, built new homes, raised their children and kept their mother tongue.

They settled among the bayous to trap and fish and hunt and on the firm land to farm.

In due time, about 150 years ago—those in the area around Crowley, now the queen city of the rice country, found that rice was their best crop.

They cultivated miles of terraced fields, poured now by stream and now by highway that run east and west past white picket fences, carrying the constant threat of commerce to and from these people.

Factories came, and train tracks, electric lights, telephones, power lines, roads and schools reaching the country or generation. English and French sound state against the soft flowing French syllables of their parents.

Then the flood of last August.

Only a few signs of the disaster remain now—water marks on trees and buildings, mud, feet high, on the shrubbery, and the Red Cross flag flying over the city hall where many food-sufferers still are being cared for.

Gone into dust are the hopes of a new world.

But the people feel the blow should be given a little more, the farmers were emerging from the shadow of this in a determination.

They are now planning to hold a festival to mark the 100th anniversary of the Acadian settlement in Louisiana, and to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the arrival of the first Acadians in Louisiana.

The festival will be held in Crowley, La., and will feature a variety of activities, including a parade, a fair, and a concert.

The festival will be a great success, and will help to rebuild the area and bring back the hopes of a new world.

FOUR IS A CROWD

drowned cattle that had to be burned by the hundreds while Crowley's 10,000 residents were still fugitive from their inundated homes.

Proud that Louisiana leads the nation in rice, its 1939 crop of 20,500,000 bushels was worth $16,000,000, and that Acadian parish here produces from its 12,500 cultivated acres more rice than Texas or Arkansas, the merchants streamed back into Crowley before the waters had receded.

Life began again with the "business as usual" sign as soon as the streets were dry, although damage amounted to the $10,000,000 mark.

LIGHTNING BLAMED FOR PLANE'S CRASH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—(AP)—The naval aeronautics board has blamed "a severe lightning discharge" as the probable cause of the Lovettsville, Va., airplane crash which killed 25 persons August 31.

The lightning, it was said in a formal report which followed lengthy investigations, was in the immediate neighborhood of the Pennsylvania Central Air Lines' plane, and probably resulted in "the disabling of the pilot."

Senator Lundeen, Farmer-Laborite, Minnesota, was among those killed. The board said continued research was needed on the effects of lightning upon aircraft and on atmospheric turbulence.
